EUROPEAN COMMISSION STAKEHOLDER CONSULTATION ON ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE WHITE PAPER

The Danish Institute for Human Rights welcomes the White Paper on “Artificial Intelligence - A European approach to excellence and trust”, which is an important contribution to developing a fundamental rights approach to AI within the EU.

The matter is a prioritised issue at the Danish Institute for Human Rights (the National Human Rights Institution in Denmark).

Currently the Institute is working on a legal and socio-techno analysis on the human rights challenges related to use of AI in the public administration in Denmark. The analysis focuses on the human rights challenges raised by the use of AI in public administration in relation to three areas. 1) The right to privacy and data protection 2) prohibition against discrimination, and 3) rule of law in the exercise of public administration.

The analysis will be completed in 2020 and the Institute is looking forward to a continued dialogue with the EU on this important matter.

Yours sincerely,

Marya Akhtar
